

Croatian Medical Chamber and the Faculty of Law University of Split, in co-organization with the chambers in healthcare, organized the 4th Congress of the Coordination of Chambers in Healthcare (KoKoZ) and the 6th Croatian Congress of Medical Law, which was held from April 21 to 23, 2023, in Novi Vinodolski, attended by Deputy Director Igor Vulje and officials of the Agency.

During the congress, numerous lectures and panels were held on current topics in healthcare and medical law, one of which was the information system eKarton. On the second day of the congress, the eKarton system was discussed on a panel by Deputy Director Igor Vulje and officials of the Agency, representatives of the Ministry of Health, Ericsson Nikola Tesla, the Faculty of Law in Split, and the Croatian Medical Chamber.

eKarton was also the topic of lectures delivered by officials of the Agency. It was emphasized that when processing health data, as a special category, it is necessary to have a justified purpose and to process such data only if it is necessary for purposes such as patient treatment or scientific research with the application of anonymization, while it is not justified to access e-Karton for private purposes of physicians, as this would entail appropriate responsibility from the perspective of the General Regulation on Data Protection.

Likewise, participants had the opportunity to hear about organizational and technical measures for the protection of personal data in healthcare systems. The emphasis was placed on raising awareness of the importance of implementing personal data protection measures among all employees in an institution, from the highest to the lowest level of the organizational structure.
