

Director of the Agency for Personal Data Protection Zdravko Vukić and the Commissioner of the Agency for Information and Privacy of the Republic of Kosovo Krenare Sogojeva Dermaku, last week in the premises of the AZOP, signed a Memorandum of Cooperation, with the aim of promoting European standards in the field of personal data protection. The Croatian and Kosovo agencies will carry out joint activities such as awareness-raising campaigns, study visits, mutually exchange knowledge and experiences, as well as experts who will be trained in specific sectors.

Director Zdravko Vukić expressed satisfaction that the Agency will provide concrete knowledge and experience from its area of work. "I am glad that with our previous experience and good practices we can contribute to your work and thus assist in your European path."

"I am pleased that we are signing this memorandum today, which was one of my priorities when I was appointed Commissioner. This is a continuation of the good cooperation we have previously achieved and an opportunity to learn and progress," emphasized Commissioner Krenare Sogojeva Dermaku.
